DAILY STOCK MARKET REVIEW

CURRENT NEWS AND GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO INVESTORS

Market Holds Its Own, Even Against Lower Prices in London—Baltimore and Ohio Especially Strong on Reports of Good Earnings.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The stock market showed activity at the opening with prices slightly easier, but the tone was considerably firmer than that of London. There was some tendency to recovery and many specialties rallied to higher prices. Baltimore and Ohio was especially strong, and there were dealings in the international list. General Electric gained 1/4, Northwest 1/4, Chicago Terminal preferred 1/4, Air Brake 1/4 and 1/2 in Tennessee Coal and Iron. The demand for Reading became active and it ruled higher. St. Paul lost 1/2, and Union Pacific held heavy.

11 a. m.—The stock market responded slightly to the lower range of prices from London, due entirely to profit taking but the reaction did not extend far and within half an hour purchases for both accounts started the speculation upward again.

COTTON STILL GOING TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

NEW YORK, June 13.—The cables from Liverpool again supplied a motive for renewed bull activity in the cotton market this morning, and early prices showed fair advances all around. Not only were the cables higher, but complaints were heard from the belt that the weather was too cool. Shorts were conspicuous at the start, and a little commission house buying also was reported. Private advices from Liverpool stated that the strength in that market was variously attributed to the advance in the spot market, Sully buying and adverse crop news from America.

Later months in the local market showed the greatest activity and strength, although the whole list was fairly well supported both on the call and later, the crowd being especially attracted to new crop options by reports of a Gulf storm headed for Texas.

After the call there was continued buying of October and later positions, and selling of the near months for profits. The market at New Orleans opened 7 points higher on near positions, and 13 points up on late months. The following prices were quoted on the cotton market today:

Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
July.....	12.10	12.25	12.26

After the call there was continued buying of October and later positions, and selling of the near months for profits. The market at New Orleans opened 7 points higher on near positions, and 13 points up on late months. The following prices were quoted on the cotton market today:

NEW YORK, June 13.—The stock market showed activity at the opening with prices slightly easier, but the tone was considerably firmer than that of London. There was some tendency to recovery and many specialties rallied to higher prices. Baltimore and Ohio was especially strong, and there were dealings in the international list. General Electric gained 1/4, Northwest 1/4, Chicago Terminal preferred 1/4, Air Brake 1/4 and 1/2 in Tennessee Coal and Iron. The demand for Reading became active and it ruled higher. St. Paul lost 1/2, and Union Pacific held heavy.

London closed irregular for our stocks this morning, with prices generally lower; Canadian Pacific nearly 1/2, and about everything else 1/2 down. Money rates and foreign exchange quotations are unchanged from yesterday.

The bear party did not offer stocks freely today, though trying to make the market appear weak. Hundreds came out, against thousands a few days ago.

It is reported this morning that the Harriman interests have ordered of the United States Steel Corporation 100,000 tons of steel rails for 1904 deliveries. They will be used by the Union Pacific and South Pacific, and are said to be the first ordered for 1904.

The continuing and exceptional strength of the stock market yesterday was in no sense a surprise to close observers of the situation or to those people who knew how strongly bullish sentiment is now running in bank parlors and among the larger financial interests generally. It is pointed out that it is not reasonable to suppose that the great interests which are now in control of and extending active support to the market would have sent cable advices to the principal bankers of London and the Continent, urging the purchasing of stocks if it were intended that there should be merely a rally. Instead the point is made that the market has finally and surely turned the corner, and that the tendency for some time to come will be upward. It is not expected, however, that this advance will be continuous and without reaction. Rather, reactions are to be expected and will be welcomed because giving opportunity for purchases by interests who wait for such recessions, and because also such reactions will prevent any wild or runaway market. But that higher prices are inevitable is the testimony of every investor in Wall Street whose opinion is worth the having. These are better authorities to follow than the loud-talking individuals who were the biggest bulls at the top and the greatest bears at the bottom.

It is the opinion of some ordinarily astute observers that the remaining short interest is very large. A prominent money trader says that the present short interest in St. Paul is about the largest, in his judgment, that has ever existed in that stock, and that the general short account is enormous. This fairly expresses the prevailing idea on the subject. It was rumored on the floor of the stock exchange yesterday that comprehensive plans have been laid for a campaign against the bear party. Many of the room traders expect to see an interesting contest before accounts are squared. It is taken for granted that the bear party will resist efforts to force it in on a rising market. The attitude yesterday was somewhat surprising. With the professional contingent expecting a reaction and with a good deal of realizing on stocks bought in the sessions of Tuesday and Wednesday in progress, technical conditions seemed to favor a demonstration against values.

Gross earnings of the Baltimore and Ohio for May show the enormous gain of $607,287 over the corresponding period of 1935.

According to the known movement of money in the week, the New York banks have gained over $2,000,000 in cash. On operations with the subtreasury the banks lost upward of $2,500,000, while with the interior there was a gain of $5,000,000. The movement of money from the South and West will be in favor of New York for several weeks to come, and it is therefore not likely that local money market quotations will move to a materially higher level at present. Call money now rules at a relatively easy figure, and it is not probable that an important change in rates will be made before the end of the month, when 1st of July interest and dividend disbursements may cause a temporary advance in the price of money. New York bank officers have made a careful examination of the financial situation in this city, and they find in conditions no reason for uneasiness. Despite the enormous decline in the stock market in the last eight months, stock market commission houses are strong in resources, and they are in a position to withstand a further shrinkage in market values without appealing to the money institutions for assistance. All the current reports of Wall Street regarding pending bankruptcies have absolutely no foundation in fact. There will be no failures among the substantial houses, while it is not likely that the smaller concerns will be forced to appeal to the indulgence of their creditors. The very fact that Wall Street has been able to sustain a decline running from 20 to 70 points in the value of securities, and representing a depreciation in market worth as based on the capitalization of companies of upward of $1,200,000,000, reflects enormous strength in underlying conditions.
